How this file works with the asset list. Every asset ID in this script (FT, PH, ST, AI, DOC, QT, MAP, MUS, SFX) matches a row in Before_Bondi_Asset_List.xlsx, which gives the exact file name, the free source, search terms or AI prompt, the licence and credit rule, and a free fallback.

1. Editorial stance: we do not take a side

This documentary does not take a side in the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. Its question is narrower: how has this conflict affected Australia and Australians? It reports what happened, shows the evidence on screen as each claim is spoken, and gives every side's position in its own terms, at equal weight. It does not tell viewers what to conclude.

How neutrality is built into every frame

- Equal treatment. Whenever one community's experience or position is shown, the other's is shown at the same size, for the same time, in the same design, with the same music level, joined by the amber Seam (motif M3).
- Neither voice belongs to a side. Atlas and Ara alternate every segment by structure, not by topic. Whenever both sides' positions are given in one segment, the same voice reads both, in an identical tone.
- Quotes from both directions. The quote cards include the Australian government, the opposition, Israel's prime minister, a pro-Palestinian advocacy group, ASIO and a victim's family, all in the same card design.
- Attributed, not asserted. Contested facts are attributed on screen. The narrators never state a contested claim as fact.
- Neutral language and design. "Israel", "Palestinians", "Hamas", "the war in Gaza". No national flag colours as design colours.
- No generated likenesses or symbols, no graphic content.

Disclaimer — top of the video description (full version)

This is an independent documentary made for educational and informational purposes. It does not take a side in the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, and it is not affiliated with, endorsed by, or paid for by any government, political party, advocacy group or community organisation. Statements of fact come from parliamentary records, court judgments, government statements, United Nations documents and official reports, shown on screen and listed in the description. Quotations are short, attributed, and used for news reporting and commentary. The positions of different sides are summarised, attributed, and given equal weight. Casualty figures are attributed to their sources. Some scenes are AI-generated reconstructions, and the narration voices are AI-generated. No real person has been AI-generated or altered. If you believe anything is inaccurate or unfair to any side, contact [your email] and we will review it promptly.

Title options (Bondi-led, factual, never sensational)

- Before Bondi: The 799 Days That Changed Australia
- The 799 Days Before Bondi
- Before Bondi: How a War 14,000 km Away Reached Australia

Thumbnail (Bondi psychology, done respectfully)

- Image: real free photo of Bondi Beach at dusk (ST01 still), slightly dark. In the foreground, one lit candle (ST13 still). A thin amber line runs off the edge of the frame toward "GAZA 14,000 KM".
- Text: big "799 DAYS" in amber, with a small split-flap style "BEFORE BONDI" under it. Optional small stamp: "WHO PAID FOR THE FIRE?".
- Why it works: it promises the viewer's real question (how did Bondi happen?) plus a mystery they don't know yet, and the countdown in the film keeps paying that promise off.
- Never: victims, the gunmen, attack footage, blood, police tape at the scene, flags, crying faces, or words like SHOCKING / EXPOSED. YouTube restricts sensational tragedy thumbnails, and it would break the film's neutrality.

Description order

Disclaimer → chapters → sources (section 10) → quotes with sources (section 9) → media credits (copy from the asset list's Credit column) → "Some background scenes are AI-generated reconstructions. No real person has been AI-generated or altered. Narration voices are AI-generated."

4. Rules (apply to every frame)

Legal and accuracy

- Evidence-led. Every factual claim appears on screen with its source and date as it is spoken.
- "Allegedly" and "according to ASIO" stay attached to the Iran attribution (S05, S09, S10).
- No causal claim about Bondi. The film never says the Middle East conflict, recognition, protests or any group caused the attack. S07 states this to the viewer directly; S41 repeats it with police's stated motive and the risk of blaming communities.
- Bondi: never name or show the gunmen. The surviving accused is before the courts; say only what police have stated.
- Quotes are short, exact, attributed (speaker, date, source) and shown on a quote card as they are read. Never edit a quote's words. Check each one against its primary source (section 9).
- "Summary of public positions" labels every paraphrased case-for / case-against card.
- Analysis is labelled (Chapter 7 carries an ANALYSIS corner tag).
- Casualty figures are always attributed, with an as-of date.
- ParlView excerpts are fair and in context, credited "Parliament of Australia", under Parliament's conditions (no party advertising, election material or satire). Get written confirmation before publishing.

People and respect

- No AI-generated, drawn, animated or altered likeness of any real person. Real people appear only in real photos and ParlView footage. Animated people are faceless figure icons.
- No icons, illustrations or AI images of religious symbols, religious dress, flags or party logos. Real symbols appear only where they are in real photos (e.g. menorahs at the Bondi memorial).
- No graphic content, ever. Aftermath, memorials, maps and documents only.
- Quiet moments (S01, S15, S24, S36, S37, S45): slow, minimal motion; no stamps, shakes or comic effects. S38-S41 are near-quiet. No countdown tick sound during quiet moments.
- Zomi Frankcom's photo only with written family permission; otherwise the name card. Ahmed al Ahmed's photo only if a freely licensed real photo exists; otherwise the name card.
- "Dramatised reconstruction" label on AI01, AI02, AI03 and AI10 whenever they appear.

Budget and copyright

- $0. Every item is public domain, Creative Commons, free stock, free under the owner's published conditions, generated with your own Grok account, or built by the pipeline.
- No news-network footage, no agency photos, no screenshots of news websites. Quotes are rebuilt as your own quote cards.
- Items marked PERMISSION / TERMS are used only after written confirmation; each has a free fallback.

5. The two voices

	Atlas (male)	Ara (female)
Grok voice	Your channel voice: keep your usual settings	Recommended: Ara (warm, conversational). Backup: Eve. Never mix the two
Role	Co-narrator	Co-narrator
Segments	23 (all odd-numbered: S01, S03 ...)	23 (all even-numbered: S02, S04 ...)
Words	891	884

- Equal partners. Both voices tell the story, read records and read quotes. Neither is the "main" narrator, so after a minute or two viewers expect the handover and listen for it.
- Strict alternation. Atlas speaks every odd segment, Ara every even one. Segments run 15–40 seconds, so the switch resets attention without any visual trick.
- Handover rule. Leave 0.35–0.5 s of air at every handover. Where a segment ends on a question or a hook, the next voice answers it, which makes the two sound like they're telling one story together.
- Never by side. Voices are assigned by position in the script, not by topic. When one segment gives two sides' positions, one voice reads both.
- Reading quotes. The narrator says "quote", takes a short pause, and reads the words plainly, without imitating the speaker. The quote card is on screen at the same time.
- Matching sound. Generate both voices with the same output format and loudness (–14 LUFS integrated). If one sounds closer or brighter, EQ it to match before the mix.

Audition before generating

Generate S10 and S11 in both candidate female voices next to Atlas. Pick the voice that sounds equally neutral reading a record (S10) and naturally paired with Atlas on the handover.

6. The visual system

Five layers

Layer	Job	Share
Real footage (ParlView, DVIDS, AWM, UN)	Proof you can watch	~10%
Animated free photos	Story where no footage exists, always moving	~25%
Evidence and quote cards	Statements, judgments, reports, quotes, highlighted as spoken	~20%
Thread globe, maps, data	Where things happened and how they connect	~25%
B-roll (free stock or AI)	Atmosphere where nothing real exists	~20%

Golden rule

Something on screen reacts to the voice every 1-2 seconds, except during quiet moments and BREATHE holds, where stillness is the point.

The linked-story motifs (what makes the history stick)

These recurring images connect events years apart, so viewers build one connected story in their minds. Each motif must look identical every time it returns: same framing, colour and motion.

ID	Motif	What it does	Where
M9	The Bondi Countdown	A split-flap ticker (lower-left) shows every date as days before Bondi: -799, -420, -110... A low heartbeat tick plays each time it changes. In S35 it races to zero and the film goes silent; after the attack it flips to counting up (+25, +365). The whole film becomes a countdown viewers can feel. M1	The Thread	Dark globe, amber line from Bondi to Gaza. Each chapter lights a node; in S34 every thread pulls into Bondi.	S03 · S07 · chapter ends · S34 · S41 · S43-S44
M1b	The evidence board	A dark board where each chapter pins a card tied to the last; fully revealed in S34.	S15 · chapter ends · S34 · S44
M2	The Flame	The arson flame (S03-S04) returns in the same framing and dissolves into a Hanukkah candle (S36), then two candles (S40, S44), then dawn sunlight (S45). Fire that destroyed becomes light that remembers.	S03 · S12 · S34 · S36 · S40 · S44 · S45
M3	The Seam	Every two-sided moment is a split joined by a thin amber seam: equal size, equal time. It cracks once (S23) and widens into a gap (S28) as the country strains; it rejoins between two candles (S40).	S14 · S15 · S16 · S19 · S21 · S23 · S27 · S28 · S32 · S33 · S40 · S45

AI B-roll

- Style anchor (add to every prompt): Cinematic documentary B-roll, 16:9, natural colour, gentle film grain, shallow depth of field, slow camera movement, realistic, no text, no logos, no recognisable real people, faces not visible.
- Never generate: real people, religious dress or symbols, flags, weapons, violence, injured people, military insignia.
- Generate 5–10 s clips, 2–3 variations each, with your own Grok account (Grok Imagine).

Sound

- Narration –14 LUFS integrated; SFX ~12 dB under; music ~20 dB under, ducking under speech, rising to ~–16 LUFS in the two montages (S34, S45).
- Music map: MUS10 cello under the opening memorial (S01–S02) · MUS01 cold-open mystery · MUS04 Ch1 · MUS02 Ch2 · MUS07 Ch3 · MUS06 Ch4 and quiet moments · MUS09 Ch5 · MUS10 Ch6 · MUS11 closing · MUS12 signature motif on the title, chapter cards (not Ch5 or Ch6) and the final line.
- Crossfade music over 2–4 s on emotion changes, not on cuts.
- Two total silences (music and SFX out): 1.0 s before S10 and 2.0 s after S35 ("it wasn't").
- Countdown tick (SFX24) is the film's sonic signature: one low tick every time the Bondi Countdown changes; it accelerates like a heartbeat in S34 and S35, then never plays again after the attack except once, softly, in S42 when the count flips to +25.

S01_ATLAS.mp3 · quiet, grave, unhurried

Bondi Beach. [pause] On the fourteenth of December, twenty twenty-five, the first night of Hanukkah, it became the scene of the deadliest terror attack ever carried out on Australian soil. [pause] Fifteen people were killed.

S02_ARA.mp3 · searching, clear

Afterwards, the whole country asked the same question. [pause] How did this happen here? [pause] Police say the gunmen were inspired by Islamic State. But the Australia they struck had been under strain for two years, ever since the war in Gaza began in October twenty twenty-three.

S03_ATLAS.mp3 · leaning in, conspiratorial

This film follows the threads of that strain. [pause] Some go back seventy-eight years. [pause] One goes back just fourteen months, to a fire [pause] in the same suburb.

S04_ARA.mp3 · quiet, then a chill

October, twenty twenty-four. In the early hours, a small kosher restaurant in Bondi goes up in flames. Nobody is hurt. Police treat it as a local crime. [pause] Seven weeks later, eight hundred kilometres south, a synagogue in Melbourne is firebombed before dawn.

S05_ATLAS.mp3 · hushed, ominous

What almost nobody knew then was that the people who lit these fires were allegedly <slow>paid.</slow> [pause] And the money trail led to a government on the other side of the world.

S06_ARA.mp3 · warm, intriguing

And on the night of the attack, one man ran toward the gunfire. [pause] His story became one of the most shared in the country. [pause] We'll come back to him.

S07_ATLAS.mp3 · calm, setting the contract with the viewer

None of these threads explains Bondi on its own. [pause] But together, they show the country it happened in. [pause] And to understand that country, we have to follow the money first.

S08_ARA.mp3 · investigative, vivid

For months, the fires looked like local crime. But Australia's domestic spy agency, ASIO, kept following the money. [pause] What its investigators found, ASIO's chief later described as a <slow>layer cake.</slow>

S09_ATLAS.mp3 · clear, rhythmic

Middlemen overseas. Coordinators. And at the bottom, local criminals, paid to do a job, not to make a point. [pause] Security experts call it crime as a service. [pause] It's cheap. It's deniable. And it's very hard to detect.

S10_ARA.mp3 · formal, then weighty

August, twenty twenty-five. The Prime Minister announces ASIO's assessment. [pause] According to ASIO, Iran's Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps directed at least two of the attacks. The Bondi restaurant fire, and the Melbourne synagogue. [pause] He called them, quote, extraordinary and dangerous acts of aggression, orchestrated by a foreign nation on Australian soil.

S11_ATLAS.mp3 · grave, then pointed

Australia expelled Iran's ambassador. The first expulsion of an ambassador since the Second World War. Iran denied any involvement. [pause] In Parliament, Opposition Leader Sussan Ley said the attacks aimed to, quote, turn neighbour against neighbour, and Australian against Australian. [pause] Remember those words.

S12_ARA.mp3 · turning, building a bridge

That was one hundred and ten days before Bondi. [pause] But why would anyone use a fire in Bondi as a weapon at all? [pause] To answer that, we have to go back to a vote Australia cast first.

S13_ATLAS.mp3 · storytelling, quiet surprise

November, nineteen forty-seven. The new United Nations votes on a plan to divide Palestine into a Jewish state and an Arab state. [pause] The committee behind it is chaired by Australia's foreign minister. [pause] And the first country to vote yes [pause] is Australia.

S14_ARA.mp3 · warm, vivid

Thirty years earlier, Australian Light Horsemen had charged at Beersheba, helping open the road to Jerusalem. [pause] So Australians shaped this land twice. [pause] Once on horseback. And once at a ballot.

S15_ATLAS.mp3 · soft, even, equal weight to both halves

<soft>For many Jewish people, that vote is remembered as a rescue, after the Holocaust. [pause] For Palestinians, what followed in nineteen forty-eight is remembered as the Nakba. The catastrophe. When more than seven hundred thousand people fled or were expelled from their homes.</soft> [pause] The same event. [pause] Remembered in two opposite ways.

S16_ARA.mp3 · warm, grounded

Both memories sailed to Australia. [pause] Melbourne became home to one of the largest communities of Holocaust survivors, per person, outside Israel. Palestinian, Lebanese and other Arab families settled in Sydney's south-west. [pause] Today, more than one hundred thousand Jewish Australians, and more than eight hundred thousand Muslim Australians, call this country home.

S17_ATLAS.mp3 · connecting, forward hook

So when war comes to the Middle East, it doesn't stay there. [pause] It arrives in Australian homes, as family. [pause] And in the two years before Bondi, it arrived in Canberra too.

S18_ARA.mp3 · clear, a small reveal

First, a choice almost nobody noticed. [pause] Dozens of Australian companies make parts for the F thirty-five fighter jet, and those parts go into a shared global pool. [pause] Australia's air force flies the F thirty-five. [pause] So does Israel's.

S19_ATLAS.mp3 · neutral, both cases in identical tone

Critics, including aid groups and the Greens, say that makes Australia part of the war. [pause] The government says Australia has not supplied weapons or ammunition to Israel since the war began, and that leaving the pool would weaken Australia's own defence, without grounding a single Israeli jet.

S20_ARA.mp3 · historic, connecting the dots

Then, a choice everyone noticed. [pause] In August twenty twenty-five, the Prime Minister announced Australia would recognise the State of Palestine. He called a two-state solution, quote, humanity's best hope to break the cycle of violence. [pause] And he reminded the country that Australia had been the first to back the U.N. plan, back in nineteen forty-seven.

S21_ATLAS.mp3 · neutral, attacked from both sides

It was made official at the United Nations in September, with conditions. No role for Hamas, demilitarisation, and Palestinian elections. [pause] And it was attacked from both directions. The Coalition, Israel's government and many Jewish groups said it rewarded Hamas. [pause] A pro-Palestinian advocacy group called it, quote, completely meaningless, while Australia still traded with Israel.

S22_ARA.mp3 · tense, reading plainly

Then it turned personal. [pause] Israel's prime minister posted that history would remember Albanese as, quote, a weak politician who betrayed Israel and abandoned Australia's Jews. [pause] Albanese replied, quote, I don't take these things personally.

S23_ATLAS.mp3 · weighty, then a turn inward

Visas were cancelled on both sides. Relations between two old friends sank to their lowest point in decades. [pause] Abroad, Canberra was making choices. [pause] But for some Australian families, the war had already come much closer.

S24_ARA.mp3 · tender, slow

<soft>Zomi Frankcom grew up in Melbourne. She spent years feeding people in disaster zones. [pause] On the first of April, twenty twenty-four, she and six colleagues from World Central Kitchen were killed, when Israeli drone strikes hit their clearly marked convoy in Gaza.</soft>

S25_ATLAS.mp3 · steady, three voices read plainly

Prime Minister Albanese called it, quote, completely unacceptable. [pause] Israel's prime minister said his forces had, quote, unintentionally harmed non-combatants. [pause] Her family said she would leave, quote, a legacy of compassion, bravery and love.

S26_ARA.mp3 · factual, gentle

A former Defence Force chief reviewed Israel's investigation for Australia. He found serious failures, but no evidence the convoy had been knowingly targeted. [pause] In twenty twenty-six, Israel's military cleared its soldiers of criminal wrongdoing. Her family called that a miscarriage of justice.

S27_ATLAS.mp3 · empathetic, then even

Australians were also among those killed or affected in Israel. And Australian-Palestinians lost parents, siblings and cousins in Gaza. [pause] Australia granted thousands of visitor visas to people fleeing Gaza. Supporters called it basic humanity. The opposition said vetting was rushed. The government said every applicant was checked.

S28_ARA.mp3 · quietly ominous

For these families, the war was never far away. [pause] And at home, it was pulling the country in two.

S29_ATLAS.mp3 · grave, steady

It began on the seventh of October, twenty twenty-three. [pause] Hamas-led fighters crossed from Gaza into southern Israel. Around twelve hundred people were killed, most of them civilians, and around two hundred and fifty were taken hostage.

S30_ARA.mp3 · heavy, careful, then precise and attributed

It was the deadliest day for Jewish people since the Holocaust. [pause] Israel's military campaign in Gaza lasted two years. [pause] Gaza's Health Ministry, run by Hamas, reported tens of thousands of Palestinians killed. U.N. agencies broadly treated those figures as reliable, and Israel disputed them. [pause] U.N. backed experts declared famine in parts of the territory.

S31_ATLAS.mp3 · tense, fair

Back home, two days after October the seventh, the Opera House sails were lit in Israel's colours. That night, a pro-Palestinian rally gathered below. [pause] Flares were lit, and antisemitic chanting caused national outrage, though a later police review disputed exactly what was said.

S32_ARA.mp3 · even, two matched cases

The fight moved onto phones and into courtrooms. [pause] The private details of hundreds of Jewish writers and artists were published online, and Parliament made malicious doxxing a crime. [pause] An ABC presenter was taken off air after sharing a human rights report on Gaza, and the Federal Court later found she'd been unlawfully sacked. [pause] Two cases. Opposite sides.

S33_ATLAS.mp3 · a divided country

Tens of thousands marched across the Harbour Bridge in the rain. [pause] Jewish groups recorded record numbers of antisemitic incidents. Muslim Australians, especially women wearing the hijab, reported record abuse. [pause] The government appointed two special envoys, one to combat antisemitism, and one to combat Islamophobia.

S34_ARA.mp3 · realisation, the big payoff

Now look back. [pause] The fires. The jet parts. The expelled ambassador. The recognition. The court cases. The visas. [pause] All of it, in the two years before Bondi.

S35_ATLAS.mp3 · hopeful for a beat, then two slow words

In October twenty twenty-five, a U.S.-brokered ceasefire brought the surviving hostages home. [pause] Many hoped the worst was over. [pause] Sixty-five days later, [pause] <slow>it wasn't.</slow>

S36_ARA.mp3 · quiet dread

<soft>Remember the fire, fourteen months earlier, in the same suburb? [pause] Hanukkah is the festival of lights. [pause] On its first night, around a thousand people gathered by the beach to celebrate.</soft>

[pause] And some warn that seeing Bondi only through Israel and Gaza risks missing the extremism behind it, or blaming whole communities for the acts of two men.

S42_ARA.mp3 · steady, then resonant
